EXPLORING SYSTEMS OF OPPRESSION AND
POSSIBILITIES FOR EMERGENCY THROUGH A
CRITICAL EXAMINATION OF ORLANDO

The 7-week "Difficult Dialogues" (co-curricular) initiative offers participants the opportunity to begin to process and heal from the summer's events at Pulse in Orlando. Participants will build affirming relationships within and across their own identities as they analyze the ways in which racism, queerphobia, transphobia, trans-masculinity, and other systems of oppression create personal violence. Throughout the dialogue, participants will work together to develop and implement a collective action project to promote social justice on the campus and beyond.

Interested undergraduate and graduate students may sign-up to participate via the Intergroup Dialogue Program website: intergroupdialogue.syr.edu
